University of Novi Sad – Central (Rectorate) building and IPS 2018 conference venue

The University of Novi Sad, with more than 50,000 students and 5,000 employees, is one of the largest educational and research centers in Central Europe. It belongs to the group of comprehensive universities, which are characterized by providing nearly all fields of science and higher education. The University of Novi Sad offers around 400 accredited study programs at the level of Bachelor, Master, Specialist and Doctoral studies, carried out at its Faculties and within its Centers for Interdisciplinary and Multidisciplinary Studies. The study programs are modern and up-to-date with the latest developments in science and research. Along with the Faculties and centers, three Scientific Institutes have a significant role in creating a solid scientific base for the process of continuous modernization of the educational offer.

Plenary and meeting rooms

About the Conference session organizer

Institute of Lowland Forestry and Environment (ILFE) was founded in 1958 under the name of the Poplar Research Institute by the Parliament of the Autonomous Province of Vojvodina. Soon after, the Institute has been renamed the Institute for Poplars and Non-forest Greenery and finally, in October 2006, the Institute has changed its name to the Institute of Lowland Forestry and Environment (ILFE). ILFE research and development activities are directed towards both basic and applied research that meets demands of the research users, such as public enterprises, private forest landowners, urban residents and policy-makers. ILFE has realized numerous projects related to the improvement of major tree species (poplars, willows, black locust, common oak, European beech, Norway spruce, wild cherry, etc.) in Serbia and other former Yugoslavian Republics, projects of the establishment of protective greenery, forest management plans, rehabilitation of degraded lands. Moreover, numerous international projects have successfully been realized with various partners from both Europe and USA.

About Novi Sad

With the population of nearly 278,000 people, Novi Sad is the second largest city in Serbia and the administrative centre of the Autonomous Province of Vojvodina (northern part of Republic of Serbia). The city is located on the left bank of the Danube River and occupies the area of 129.7 km². Climate of the city is temperate continental. The city was founded in 1694, while the status of "free royal city" Novi Sad acquired in 1748, by the edict of Maria Theresa. Today, Novi Sad is the city of museums, galleries, and events such as the EXIT Music Festival, which is one of the biggest festivals in Europe.

Novi Sad is located 20 kilometres from Fruška Gora Mountain, which was declared a national park in 1960. The area of national park is the place for those who like to explore nature and enjoy fresh mountain air, as well as the home of 35 monasteries built in the period from 15th to 18th century.

Novi Sad was proclaimed in Brussels the European Capital of Culture for the year 2021, being the first city outside the EU to be awarded that title! Official languages are Serbian, Croatian, Hungarian, Slovak and Ruthenian
