

IUFRO 3.08.00

SMALL SCALE FORESTRY CONFERENCE

Challenges and Opportunities

Call for Abstracts

The IUFRO Small-Scale Forestry Conference will be held in Kilkenny, Ireland from 22-24 June 2020. The conference includes a post-conference tour in the south and east of Ireland. The conference scientific committee is inviting abstract submissions for oral presentations and posters. Proposals related to the social, economic and ecological discussions of small-scale forestry are welcome, including:

- Forest management behaviour
- Education and extension
- Non-timber forest products
- Agroforestry
- Policies and governance
- Forest ownership and land tenure
- Ecosystem services
- Succession planning
- Peer-to-peer and social networks
- Social impacts
- Disturbance vectors (invasive species, fire risk, etc.)
- Longitudinal trends
- Spatial patterns and processes
- Rural development

Submissions should include a descriptive title, abstract (not to exceed 250 words), 3-5 keywords, and the names and affiliations of the authors. Language of abstracts should be English. Submissions will be assessed for relevance, theoretical soundness, methods, novelty, and technical quality. Abstracts due 15 December 2019. Any questions contact julie.ballweg@ucd.ie

22-24 June 2020
Kilkenny, Ireland

More information at <https://iufrossf.ucd.ie/>