Dear Colleagues!

You are welcome to participate in the IX International Conference “The Problems of Forest Phytopathology and Mycology” dedicated to 90-years from the birth of professor N.I. Fedorov. The conference will be held in Minsk at the Belarusian State Technological University.

Nicolay Ilyich Fedorov - doctor of Biological Sciences, professor, a famous Belarusian scientist in the field of forest phytopathology, mycology, forest protection, wood technology, forest commodity science. Since 1947 and till death his life had been closely related to BSTU and Belarusian forests. In a period of his scientific activities Fedorov N.I. had published 8 monographs and more than 400 other studies. Lots of them have become classical and now are the examples of scientific creation. N.I. Fedorov is one of the authors of “Instructions on crackdown on pine, spruce and fir fungus in the forests of USSR” (1979) which had been widely used across CIS till the 21st century. The results of researches, which were held by professor Fedorov and his students in Belarus, are summarized in the monograph “Root decay of conifer” published in 1984. Under the guidance of Nicolay Ilyich three international scientific conferences were held, dedicated to the problems of forest protection. Professor N.I. Fedorov is one of the authors of the fundamental monograph which contains analyzed international experience of the study of a problem of pine fungus – Heterobasidion annosum: biology, ecology, impact and control” (1998). N.I. Fedorov was one of the members of a working party IUFRO dealing with root decay of wood. Nicolay Ilyich’s working career was frequently decorated with government awards.

N.I. Fedov devoted a lot to educational work. He prepared 25 PhDs and 2 Doctors of sciences, created the school of science of the forest phytopathology in BSTU, carried out an extensive work on writing books and manuals.

He had always cared about his discipleship, he was an exacting, hard-working person, contributed to developing scientific level of his colleagues, postgraduates and students. Nicolay Fedorov valued and supported human decency, kindness and civic engagement.
