Post Doctoral Research Fellow (EH Graham Centre for Agricultural Innovation)

- Full time, Fixed term (3 years)
- Level A - $74,578 - $80,053 (Including 17% Superannuation)
- Orange

Charles Sturt University is committed to excellence in research and to supporting collaborative and interdisciplinary research. The University has established nine Research Centres to identify and undertake internationally competitive research.

The EH Graham Centre for Agricultural Innovation is a strategic alliance between Industry and Investment NSW and Charles Sturt University established as a national centre of excellence in mixed farming systems for world-class collaborative research and education with key partners to deliver productivity gains and environmental protection. The Centre's multi-disciplinary research, extension and training teams deliver new technologies and information in five key outcome areas: Climate change adaptation and mitigation; Food security; Biosecurity; Water availability; and Capacity building in line with regional, state and national priorities.

The Post Doctoral Research Fellow will work with the research team led by Professor Geoff Gurr and members of the National Sirex Co-ordination Committee (NSCC) in an Australian Research Council (ARC) Linkage Program project that will help protect pine plantations from exotic pests and climate change. To be successful in this role you will enjoy being involved with all aspects of research including laboratory and field experiments and analysis of data, assisting with co-ordinating identified project components and liaising with key stakeholders. The ability to undertake overnight and helicopter travel is a requirement for this role.

It is anticipated that the successful applicant will be able to commence prior to 30 April 2010.
